GREENSOLE FOUNDATION

Introduction

Did you know, that a pair of shoes can take more than 40 years to decompose? Every year, worldwide 3.5 billion shoes are thrown away into landfills. Similarly, making a brand-new shoe emits 30 pounds of carbon emissions, equivalent to leaving a 100-watt bulb burning for a week.

At Greensole Foundation we aim to offer sustainable solutions and reduce carbon footprints by upcycling discarded shoes and apparel into footwear (slippers), bags and mats for children in need. Recently, we have also begun an initiative where we upcycle flexes into bags.

So far, we have provided 580,000+ upcycled footwear to children in need.

Core Objective

Social Impact - Providing footwear for children in need.

Environmental action - Reducing carbon footprints by upcycling.

Skilling - Providing skilling opportunities for rural women.

What we do!

• Collection Drive

Collection Drive is a process where we collect discarded footwear and apparel through our centres located across India. You can organize collection drives and send your footwear to these centres. Once the centres have collected enough, the stock is then shipped to our factory located in Mumbai.

• Manufacturing

Upcycling is a labour-intensive process and requires a month and a half to convert your old footwear to new ones. Our two factory outlets, one in Nalasapora and the other in Bhiwandi Mumbai are where we upcycle the discarded footwear and apparel.

• Donation Drive

Our team conducts a need assessment in government schools across India where we identify children aged between 4-15 years who are in need of footwear. Further, the upcycled products are then distributed to the identified government schools. Individuals and institutions are also welcome to share any data base of children in school who are in need of footwear.
